PowerHour

Technical webinars, conveniently available anytime, anywhere

Cummins Power Generation's PowerHour is a series of dynamic webinars developed especially for consulting engineers who would like to increase their technical knowledge. By attending the regularly-scheduled 60-minute sessions on topics related to designing and specifying onsite power systems, you'll pick up the same type of information you would by attending seminars or conferences, but in a more convenient format.

PowerHour participants can:

- Earn PDH and/or CEU credits
- Keep up to date on products, technology, and codes and standards development
- Participate live or on-demand at your convenience
- Interact directly with Cummins experts during Q&A at the close of the live webinar
- Gain access to local experts for ongoing support requirements

PowerHour webinars consist of 45 minutes of presentation, followed by 15 minutes for questions and discussion with subject matter experts. You can participate in the webinars from your office, your home, or anywhere you have internet access from a computer. If you can't attend the live event, webinars will be archived for online viewing.

Presented by the complete power systems experts

PowerHour webinars will be presented by knowledgeable engineers and experts on mission-critical applications from Cummins Power Generation. Example topics include:

- How to write performance-based generator set specifications
- Selective coordination, arc flash, and systems protection
- Location, sound and vibration considerations
- Data center paralleling topology
- NEC / NFPA updates and new requirements
